Introduction to the ESL Introduction to Canadian Studies Course Sequence

Subject: Social Studies - Discipline: General Social Studies

ESL Introduction to Canadian Studies sequence provides English Language Learners (ELLs) with the opportunity to build communicative competence with the English language while examining the evolving nature of Canadian citizenship and identity.

- Communicative Competence - Communicative competence is the ability to achieve communicative goals in a socially appropriate manner (Kiesling C, Fabry G., 2021). It encompasses language proficiency as well as the capacity to select and apply communication and social skills, including verbal and non-verbal behaviours, that are appropriate to the context. Communicative language teaching involves developing language proficiency through interactions embedded in meaningful contexts. Learn Alberta offers an explanation about how 4 areas contribute to communicative competence.
- Linguistic Competency - Understanding and using: vocabulary; language conventions (grammar, punctuation, spelling); syntax (sentence structure)
- Strategic Competency - Using techniques to overcome language gaps; plan and assess the effectiveness of communication; achieve conversational fluency; modify text for audience and purpose
- Socio-Linguistic Competency - Being aware of the social rules of language (e.g., formality, politeness, directness); non-verbal behaviours; cultural references (e.g., idioms, expressions, background knowledge)
- Discourse - Understanding how ideas are connected by patterns of organization; cohesive and transitional devices
- Additionally, each language strand has a specific competency: Language – auditory discrimination; Speaking – pronunciation; Reading – fluency; Writing - editing

The English Language Development (ELD) framework (Dutro & Moran, 2003) provides a pedagogical structure to support the development of communicative competence within content area learning. Explicit language instruction based on the function (purpose) of language in the lesson or task serves as the foundation of this instructional approach. Linguistic functions are often identified through the learning outcomes of the course (e.g., describe, analyze, persuade). Vocabulary (subject-specific, academic and general) and forms (grammar, sentence structures, and text organization) required to communicate these functions are explicitly taught and practiced in meaningful and authentic learning experiences to develop fluency in usage.

The ELD framework is applied to intellectually engaging tasks that are situated within a broader instructional approach of personalized learning and cultural responsiveness. ELD is comprised of the following components

- Explicit language instruction: targeting the communicative competencies outlined in the Draft Alberta K-12 English as an Additional Language (EAL) Proficiency Benchmarks (Benchmarks 2.0); focusing on the language function, vocabulary, and forms necessary to access the content objective/task demands and provides practice and ongoing language-specific feedback to build fluency.
- Frontloading challenging vocabulary and linguistic structures to render content understandable
- Capitalizing on the teachable language learning moments.
- Ongoing language assessment based on the Draft Alberta K-12 English as an Additional Language (EAL) Proficiency Benchmarks (Benchmarks 2.0) that inform next steps in teaching and learning.

Student Need

Adjusting Scaffolds for On-going Language Development

ELLs may face language and content related challenges due to limited background knowledge. For example, they may not be familiar with or have the language to understand Canadian culture, history or geography. Explicit instruction and scaffolding will be required for students to engage in typical language structures within social studies, such as debates and essays. As students gain academic language fluency, instruction and scaffolds are adjusted accordingly. For example, a beginner ELL may rely strongly on visuals, realia, and first language translation, whereas an intermediate ELL can use familiar English synonyms. As language proficiency increases, inaccuracies in receptive and productive decrease, reducing the need for scaffolding.

Academic Language

Academic language is the language used to engage with programs of study. Explicit instruction in academic language benefits all learners, both ELLs and native English speakers. Students who acquire a high level of proficiency in academic language experience greater success in school and beyond. Proficiency in academic language requires students to comprehend and produce increasingly complex: vocabulary (words and their meaning), syntax (word order and sentence structure) and discourse (using cohesive devices to connect and organize ideas). Students will use their growing proficiency with language functions, forms and vocabulary to engage with and examine a range of academic and content-specific materials to understand and produce a variety of texts and types of oral communication. Offering both ESL Introduction to Canadian Studies 15 and 25 provides students with the opportunity to engage in learning at the most appropriate level. Some students, for example, will require both courses to adequately prepare for further social studies programming, while students with higher language proficiency may enroll only in the 25-level course.

Assessment

Ongoing formative language assessment in relation to Draft Alberta K-12 English as an Additional Language (EAL) Proficiency Benchmarks (Benchmarks 2.0) that informs teaching and learning via social studies content and processes. Summative assessments are best generated through a variety of sources embedding multiple language strands within social studies content and processes. For optimal learning, it is important to ensure that single strands are not developed or assessed in isolation.

Courses in the ESL Introduction to Canadian Studies Course Sequence

ESL Introduction to Canadian Studies 15 (LDC1212)

ESL Introduction to Canadian Studies 15 is intended to meet the needs of Beginner 1, Beginner 2 and Intermediate 1 students who would benefit from explicit instruction, scaffolded learning opportunities and additional time to acquire English language competencies and social studies content and processes. These courses support ELLs who are attempting to catch up to a moving target, namely, native speakers of English whose academic language and literacy skills are increasing significantly from one grade level to the next (Cummins, 2012).

Language learning outcomes are derived directly from the Draft Alberta K-12 English as an Additional Language (EAL) Proficiency Benchmarks (Benchmarks 2.0). Social Studies concepts and process focus on Canada's geographic, economic, social and political contexts in alignment with Alberta Education's Social Studies Programs of Study.

ESL Introduction to Canadian Studies 25 (LDC2212)

ESL Introduction to Canadian Studies 25 is intended to meet the needs of Beginner 1, Beginner 2 and Intermediate 1 students who would benefit from explicit instruction, scaffolded learning opportunities and additional time to acquire English language competencies and social studies content and processes.

NOTE: The typical progression (prerequisites) for this course sequence is the 15 course followed by the 25 level course. For English as and Additional Language (EAL) students whose needs are better met through the 25 level course may be placed in the 25 level course. (The principal will record the student as "waived" into the 25 level course in PASI, but waived prerequisite credits are not available for EAL students places in higher level ESL courses.)

Statement of Overlap with Existing Programs

Similar / Overlapping Courses	Description of Similarity / Overlap - Rationale
Social Studies (GED)	The learning outcomes overlap with some of the topics in Grade 7 and 9 Social Studies related to Canadian history, geography and government. Students enrolled in ESL Introduction to Canadian Studies 15 and 25 are generally newcomers to Canada and would likely not have experienced learning Social Studies in junior high school.
	The language skills and social studies conceptual understandings acquired in ESL Introduction to Canadian Studies 15 and 25 bridge the gap for ELLs and form the foundation for success in future social studies courses. Once language and conceptual bases have been established through these courses, students will be able to enroll in further Alberta Education Social Studies Programs of Study. ELLs will continue to benefit from differentiated instruction focused on academic language development.
